Where Do They Work?

Firefighters work in a fire station. Fire stations are all around the country. Firefighters travel in their fire engines. Fire engines are red. The fire engine has flashing lights that are red and blue.

Firefighters wear clothes that protect them when doing their job.

Friday- topic

The Emergency Services

The police service is one of the emergency services. The main emergency services are:

- Police
- Fire Brigade
- Emergency Medical Service

All these services can be reached by dialling 999. When you phone this number, the operator will ask you which emergency service you need. If you aren't sure, you can explain the situation and they will put you through to the right service.

Although 911 is the number for emergency services in the USA, the phone system in the UK would send 911 calls through to 999.

Dialling 999 isn't the only way to reach the emergency services. You can also dial 112.

The Role of the Police

Although the police do a variety of things, their main duties are:

- to maintain law and order (this means making sure people keep the country's laws);
- to protect members of the public;
- to protect people's property;
- to prevent, detect and investigate crime.

The largest constabulary is the Metropolitan Police Service (known as the Met), which serves Greater London.

There used to be a minimum height requirement for people who wanted to join the police force. Men had to be at least 5 foot 8 inches (1.73 metres) and women had to be at least 5 foot 4 inches (1.63 metres). Now there is no minimum height requirement.

Talk About It

Have you ever met a police officer?

Did You Know?

Different Types of Police Officers

Police have ranks. This means different titles and levels of responsibilities. An officer joins as a Police Constable (PC). Other ranks include Sergeant, Inspector and Chief Inspector. The highest ranking police officer is known as a Chief Constable or Commissioner.

Within the service, there are different types of police. Some of them include:

- CID (Criminal Investigation Department) – These police officers investigate crimes. They don't usually wear uniform.
- Traffic police – These officers are specially trained drivers. They patrol roads, such as motorways, and can be involved in chasing criminals in cars.

There are also people called Special Constables. These are volunteers who work alongside local police officers.

Unlike many areas of the world, most British police officers do not carry guns.

Did You Know?

Police Equipment

Most police officers wear a uniform and carry special equipment. Although the design of uniform varies in each constabulary, most police officers carry the same type of equipment.

Police notebook – the police have to record everything they do. These notebooks can then be examined in court cases.

Did You Know?

Each police officer has their own identity number. Often these can be seen on an officer's shoulder.

A lady has lost her purse. Can you create a poster/leaflet to help her find it?

What questions do you think the police may ask her? What do you think they may do?
